

Sentence 5 To Jail Imprisonment

SEVERAL DIVORCES GRANTED. JURY CANCELLED.

Circuit court that began Tuesday afternoon continued to Wednesday noon, with a busy session. Criminal cases were disposed of by pleas of guilty, while testimony had to be taken in several divorce cases.

The court's journal shows the following disposition of the cases appearing on the docket.

Criminal Cases.
The cases of Ivan Heuple, petition for a new trial, and William A. Michael, negligible homicide, were continued to the January term of court.

James Bryant, unlawfully taking and driving away a car of another without the intent to steal, and Lloyd Champion, an accessory to the above, each pleaded guilty and were sentenced to 90 days in the county jail in solitary confinement.

Charles Davis, George Wyrzykowski and Henry Leman, charged with breaking and entering were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail in solitary confinement.

Civil Cases.

The appeal from Probate court case in the matter of the estate of Ernst John, deceased, was continued to the January term of court.

Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff in the cases of the Bay Trust Co. vs. R. Rasmussen, declaration and notice to plead, and Harold Jarnin, assumpsit.

The Bank of Grayling assignment case was continued to next term.

A decree was granted in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Margaret M. Douglas, et al, vs. George H. Ruhling and Elizabeth Ruhling in a bill to foreclose land contract.

In the bill of dissolution and appointment of receiver of Alvin M. Henderson vs. Harry A. Shook, the court appointed a commissioner.

The divorce case of Ernest W. Olson vs. Clara Olson was continued to the next term of court.

Divorces were granted in the following cases: C. A. Ward vs. Ethel Ward, Thelma Davis vs. Robert Davis, Laura Welch vs. Leonard Welch, Elizabeth Miliken vs. William Miliken, Ruth Sumner vs. Meridith Sumner.

Judge Reluctant to Imprison Youthful Offenders.

In sentencing the five youthful offenders—Bryant and Champion for using another's auto, and Davis, Leman and Wyrzykowski for breaking and entering into cottages, Judge Smith said in part as follows:

"I have had all kinds of cases but these are the worst I have had to deal with. If the law would allow me to do so, a sentence to have the sheriff take you out in the court yard and give each of you a horsewhipping would be right. That is what you need. You deserve severe punishment but due to your ages and your mothers' belief that you were where you would be well cared for—had confidence in the camp and in you, and both failed—I am reluctant to send you to state's prison. If you are normal the punishment I shall give you should keep you honest the rest of your days."

Ben Darroch was called into court and asked why he had failed to pay the clerk the money he owed for the support of his son, in which it appears that there was past due the sum of about $62.00. Judge Smith warned him that that amount must be paid at once and that in case of his failure to do so that he would have to serve a year in Ionia prison. He raised the money and paid the court the amount Wednesday night. Darroch was divorced by his wife, formerly Miss Louise LaVack, in last April term of court. He was recently remarried to Mrs. Hazel Chamberlain.

CURFEW SHALL RING TO NIGHT

At the last meeting of the village council it was decided to put into operation again that old ordinance regulating curfew hours. Accordingly, beginning at once, the curfew bell will be rung at 8:45 o'clock each evening and again at 9:00 p. m. after which all children not accompanied by their parents, guardian, or some adult person who has the child in charge, must be off the streets.

If you hear the fire whistle during the night time sounding a single blast, just turn over and go back to sleep. It is only a call for the nightwatch. It is a signal to him to call central and find out who wants him. Fire alarms will be the usual siren call, and is easily distinguished from the night marshal signal.

Hit And Run Driver Injures Al Roberts

IN HOSPITAL WITH SIX BROKEN RIBS

While on his way home from town Saturday night, alderman Al Roberts, it is claimed, was struck by a car owned by Charles Lee and driven by Mrs. John Deckrow at the north side approach to the AuSable bridge on U. S. 27.

Roberts was knocked down, according to reports, and severely injured. The front wheels of the car ran over him and it stopped. Roberts rolled out from under the car and called for help when the driver started up and left the scene.

Soon after the injured man was found by John Ward who summoned the aid of Harold Edwards and together they took him to Mercy hospital and notified his family. It was found that Roberts had suffered the fracture of six ribs; his left arm was bruised and swollen but not broken as was first reported, and his clothes were badly torn.

Mr. Roberts was able to describe the car and it wasn't long before Long and Mrs. Deckrow were apprehended and charged with the offense of leaving the scene of an accident. It was claimed by parties who saw them that the accused parties were driving the car without lights and that they were intoxicated.

At the time of the accident Roberts was walking on the left side of the bridge and thus the car that was traveling in the same direction, must have been on the wrong side of the highway.

A hearing was held before Justice Petersen Wednesday and both parties waived examination and were bound over to Circuit court for trial. Bail for Mrs. Deckrow was placed at $500 and for Long at $1,000.

MRS. ARTHUR E. WENDT PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Ida F. Wendt, wife of Arthur E. Wendt passed away at her home Friday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock after a several years illness from dropsy. For the past year she had been confined to her bed most of the time. Mrs. Wendt was a kind neighbor and friend. Most of the time since residing in Grayling she had been more or less of an invalid and spent most of her time in her home.

Ida F. Thowe was born in Ohio, June 20, 1864. When she was an infant she was adopted by the Thowe family and brought up by them. The family had resided in Owosso. In August, 1907, she was united in marriage to Arthur E. Wendt in Detroit and after residing there for 16 years they came to Grayling, which was eleven years ago and this had been their residence since.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the family home, Rev. E. W. Zoller of Michelson Memorial church officiating. Mrs. Emil Giegling and Mrs. Herbert Gottho rendered a couple of hymns very nicely. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery, friends of the family officiating as pallbearers.

Surviving the deceased besides her husband are five daughters and one son: Mrs. Harold Hatfield and Mrs. Ernest Bissonette, Grayling; Mrs. Louis Lavagnino, Mrs. Mina Hatfield, Floyd Mathias, Detroit; Mrs. Thomas Hoy, Salem, Ohio. Those from out of town in attendance at the funeral were Mrs. Louis Lavagnino, daughter Florence and son Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Mathias and son Arthur, Mrs. Mina Hatfield, Mrs. Lydia Boehofen, Mrs. Charles Hannert and daughter Juliet and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Gorton, all of Detroit. A daughter Mrs. Thomas Hoy was unable to come for the funeral.

Mr. Wendt and family have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

MARRIED AT PRETTY CHURCH CEREMONY

Miss Wilma Burrows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold S. Burrows and Mr. Wesley LaGrow, son of Mrs. Alex LaGrow were united in marriage Saturday morning at a pretty ceremony at St. Mary's church. Rev. Fr. J. L. Culligan officiated.

The bride was lovely in a gown of brown silk crepe with matching small hat and accessories of brown. Her corsage was tulle and roses. Her bridesmaid Miss Dorothy Roberts was pretty in brown crepe trimmed in caraco, with which she wore brown accessories. Her hat was of the latter shade and her corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Baskets of flowers and other autumn flowers decorated the altars.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents and during the early afternoon the young couple left for Detroit, where they will make their home. Mrs. John Walker, of Detroit, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Trudeau of Ferndale were here in attendance at the nuptials.

SCHOOL AFFAIRS

The contract for the senior pictures has recently been placed with the local photographer, Mr. A. J. Trudeau. Several other bids were offered for this work, but Mr. Trudeau's proposition appealed more strongly to the class. Mr. Trudeau also printed the senior pictures of 1934.

Many of the fellows have become greatly interested in football this year, and have expressed a desire to learn the fundamentals—blocking, tackling, kicking, passing, formations, etc.

In response to this, Mr. Cornell has agreed to conduct instruction games at the ball park every day at 4 o'clock. All rough playing is eliminated to avoid any possible injuries to the participants, but everyone has a grand time, and what is more important than that, we are getting an idea of the rules and terms of the game that will at least enable us to understand the accounts that will fill our papers and radio programs for the next couple of months.

Grayling hasn't had a football team for years and to a good number of us, who had never even seen a game, football stories and reports might as well have been so much Greek. We greatly appreciate this opportunity and the majority of us are making the most of it.

THAT GAS TAX REDUCTION AMENDMENT

Only four states in the U. S. have a lower gas tax rate than Michigan. Twelve states have a 3c tax the same as Michigan and the others all have a higher tax, running from 4c to 7c. And now the Detroit Automobile club is urging a lower tax for Michigan.

It is not a common thing to advocate no reduction in taxes but we believe that here is one case where it would be unwise to disturb the present rate by a change either lower or higher.

Here is a peculiar thing about the cost of gas when one drives into a gas station. In Michigan we pay a 3c tax and it is hardly noticed. But if we move over into another state where the tax is 4c a gallon, as it is in Indiana and other states, the cost per gallon is just the same. How come? Doesn't it go to show that we will have to pay the same price for gas under a 2c tax as we do with a 3c tax? It appears that instead of the state getting the one cent difference, with the reduction in tax the one cent is going to the gas companies.

Here is what the Royal Oak Tribune has to say about the matter:

"The gas tax reduction movement will probably stand or fall on the answer which Mr. John W. Public gives one question: Will the public save one cent per gallon if the tax is reduced, or will the oil companies gobble it up as extra profit?"

Our own observation leads us to believe that gasoline prices represent about all the traffic will bear, regardless of taxes, cost of production or any other such item. It is true, we think that gas would fall one cent immediately after if such an amendment should go into effect, but we would expect the price to be juggled back to the old level within a few months.

All we know about the price of gas is that we run the old flivver under the pump and somebody tells us gas has gone up. Nobody ever seems to know just why.

However, nature being what it is, we do not believe the oil companies would be pushing this amendment as hard as they are if they did not expect to cash in. We'd rather see the money we pay go into BETTER ROADS so our gas will last longer, than to hear that it has been paid out in extra dividends to the stockholders of the oil companies."

When you vote on that amendment at the November election it strikes us that the wise thing to do is to vote "NO".

MICHIGAN CENTRALNews Review of Current Events the World Over*President Calls for Truce Between Labor and Industry—Convention of A. F. of L.—Air Combat Forces Taken Away From Foulis.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S latest radio talk with his fellow citizens was well written, well delivered and peculiarly vague as to his future intentions. He sought to reassure business and labor, both of which are questioning him anxiously, but he made no definite replies to their categorical queries. His one specific statement was that within a month he would seek to negotiate a truce between large groups of employers and large groups of employees through which there would be a cessation of the strikes that have been disrupting the nation's business. He said he would ask the representatives of those forces to agree temporarily on questions of wages, hours and working conditions, and that with such agreements in force he expected further adjustments would be made peacefully through governmental or private mediation.

"I shall not ask either employers or employees permanently to lay aside the weapons common to industrial war," he added. "But I shall ask both groups to give a fair trial to peaceful methods of adjusting their conflicts of opinion and interest, and to experiment for a reasonable time with measures suitable to civilize our industrial civilization."

By way of reply to the appeals of many business, industrial and financial leaders that the more radical measures of the administration's program be abandoned, Mr. Roosevelt declared the New Deal is to go on. To the question of those leaders concerning balancing of the budget, government expenses, and further devaluation of the dollar or return to the gold standard, he made no reply. However, he did declare himself in favor of a system of business based on private property. Then he said:

"I am not for a return to that definition of liberty under which for many years a free people were being gradually regimented into the service of the privileged few. I prefer and I am sure you prefer that broader definition of liberty under which we are moving forward to greater freedom, to greater security for the average man than he has ever known before in the history of America."

Concerning the NRA, the President gave praise to General Johnson, and said the National Recovery Administration was entering its second phase, "which is in turn a period of preparation for legislation which will determine its permanent form." He admitted there was a question as to the wisdom of some of the devices employed during the first phase of the NRA, but he declared the attacks on the constitutionality of many of the things his administration has done. "We are not," he said, "frightened by reactionary lawyers or political editors. All these cries have been heard before."

Near the beginning of his address, the President said: "I am happy to report that after years of uncertainty, culminating in the collapse of the spring of 1933, we are bringing order out of the old chaos with a greater certainty of the employment of labor at a reasonable wage and of more business at a fair profit. These governmental and industrial developments hold promise of new achievements for the nation."

His formal response to the President's speech came from the National Association of Manufacturers, which urged him to issue a proclamation for a "truce on industrial warfare" during which existing employment relations would be continued, and challenged the American Federation of Labor to take like action.

WHILE President William Green and some other leaders of the American Federation of Labor, just convened in San Francisco, expressed approval of what Mr. Roosevelt said in his radio address, many others prominent in the federation are far from satisfied with the way things are going. The executive council's annual report devoted pages to an analysis of the effect of the NRA upon the interests of labor. Almost without exception, the effects were found either directly harmful or at least unsatisfactory.

The criticism was directed at the workings of the recovery program, in actual operation. The NRA and the New Deal itself were not condemned.

But the committee indicted the program on these main grounds: "That it has failed to increase the purchasing power of the workers."

That because it has failed to reduce hours of labor sufficiently it has also failed to create a satisfactory number of new jobs.

"That its compliance machinery is ineffective, with the result that violations of the spirit of the codes are easily accomplished and quite general."

Labor does not have proper representation in either code enforcement or administration.

"In one way," the report says, pointing to what seems to be viewed as the only satisfactory accomplishment thus far under the NRA, "codes have fulfilled expectations. They have with few exceptions wiped out child labor."

PRESIDENT GREEN in his address to the Federation of Labor declared the establishment of the 30-hour week was one of the possible means of wiping out unemployment, and said those opposing it have offered no other remedy. First actual results in the campaign for this were announced later to the convention by Frank Feeney, president of the Elevator Constructors' union.

What he called the "greatest labor document ever written" has been signed—a five-year agreement with contractor employees providing the six-hour day, five-day week for the 19,000 members of the union on a pay basis of the eight-hour day. The contract will become effective immediately, Feeney said, in any locality in which any other four of the building trades unions negotiate similar agreements.

The document also provides for an absolutely closed shop and gives the elevator constructors the right to strike at any time to support any movement for the 30-hour week.

While the delegates were cheering this announcement, Col. W. F. Axton, tobacco manufacturer of Louisville, Ky., arose and made a lively speech in support of the 30-hour week as the means of getting everybody back to work.

"If we want to get business back we must give employment to labor," Axton said. "Industry at the same time must be protected from unfair competition by such means as codes."

FOLLOWING the recommendations of a special committee appointed by the War department and headed by Newton D. Baker, the department has created a general headquarters air force, comprising all the air combat forces, and placed it under the direct command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff.

Thus all the fighting planes are taken away from Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the air corps, and he is left in command of only the army air schools and air depots. "Benny," who flew with the Wrights in 1909 and worked his way to high command, has long been at odds with the general staff, struggling against what he considered its intrigues and politics. Now the general staff is having its way with him and, as one Washington commentator says, instead of the flying air fighter which his record fitted him to be, he has become a desk soldier and a school teacher.

Just as this order was issued Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, former chief of the air corps and a perpetual storm center, was testifying before the commission appointed by the President to study the government's aviation problem.

Mitchell called the organization of a "GHQ" air force "a lot of bunk," and he declared that all army officers who signed the Baker report should be "kicked out of the service." He referred to army aviation plans as the work of "Boy Scouts" in the War department.

According to Mitchell, these are the measures the country should adopt for its aerial defense:

Merge army, navy, and all air services under one command.

Build planes with a cruising radius of 6,000 to 8,000 miles.

Make detailed plans for war, including the evacuation of New York city in case of an air attack by Japan from a base in Alaska.

Construct dirigibles, for 50 of them "competently" handled could destroy Japan within two days.

He told the commission that "our most dangerous enemy is Japan, and our planes should be designed to attack Japan."

REMODELING of the NRA by the new industrial recovery board which has displaced General Johnson is under way. One of the board's first official acts was to give a good job to Kilbourne Johnston, son of the retiring administrator—though he spells his name differently. The young man, who is an army lieutenant on leave, was made acting divisional administrator in charge of manufacturing codes.

Donald R. Richberg, director of the industrial emergency committee, who clashed repeatedly with Johnston when he was active as chief counsel of the recovery agency, indicated if there had been wounds they were now healed.

Lloyd Garrison, thirty-eight-year-old head of the national labor relations board, announced his resignation and said he would return to his post as dean of the law school of the University of Wisconsin.

On behalf of the textile workers Francis J. Gorman formally accepted the President's plan for an industrial truce. He suggested a six-months' armistice and promised that during that period the union would permit "no stoppage of work" in protest against any findings of the textile or national labor relations boards. At the same time Gorman warned that "renewal of conflict" was imminent unless the peaceful methods suggested by the executive could be brought into "swift and effective action."

ONCE more talk of war with Russia is agitating Japan, stirred up by a remarkably frank pamphlet put out by the Japanese army department.

"Soviet Russia possesses 8,000 war planes, the United States 8,000 and China 500," the pamphlet asserted. "If these nations combine, the air forces of the powers surrounding Japan would total 6,000 planes."

"Although diplomacy can give assurance that we will meet only one enemy, we must assume that the enemy will have at least 3,000 planes. Japan has only 1,000 planes. Can our armament be said to be complete with this poor air force?"

"Constant trouble along the Soviet-Manchurian frontier, the increasingly changing attitude of the Soviets and Russia's traditional unreliability make the future of Russo-Japanese relations uncertain."

"We must develop military power and equipment sufficient to cope with any change in the situation."

One must take into consideration the fact that this document was published as the Tokyo government was about to make up the military budgets.

INTERESTING, though not highly important, is the report that comes from Vienna that Mustafa Kemal Pasha, dictator-president of Turkey, may marry one of the four unmarried sisters of King Zog of Albania. Zog is to visit Ankara soon, and the engagement may be announced then. Kemal, who is fifty-seven years old, divorced his first wife, Latife Hanum, in 1920, and is said to have expressed a wish to re-marry. King Zog's marriageable sisters range in age from twenty-three to twenty-six. The Albanian royal family, like Kemal, is of the Moslem faith.

Rumors of another almost royal marriage comes from Paris. The Farther Tagelblatt, German refugee newspaper, says Chancellor Hitler contemplates taking as his bride a German princess, one of the family of Bismarck and Gotha which is allied to the crowns of half a dozen European countries. It adds that the fuhrer at the same time will assume the title of "duke of the Germans."

SAMUEL INSULL, sixteen of his former associates in public utilities are now on trial in the federal court in Chicago. They are charged with having used the mails to defraud investors through the sale of $148,000,000 in securities of the Corporation Securities company. Judge James H. Wilkerson is presiding over the trial and United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green heads the force of prosecutors. Selection of the jury didn't take long, but it was certain the trial of the case would consume weeks for the witnesses are numbered by hundreds.

THE world air congress convened at Washington, and one of the most important events on its program was the award to Wiley Post of the International Aeronautical federation's annual gold medal for the outstanding aviation feat of 1933. For his solo flight around the world Post was chosen over Marshal Italo Balbo of Italy, the Lithuanian-American ocean flyers, Darius and Gherens, and J. V. Smirnoff, hero Holland-Dutch East Indies mail pilot.

The judges who made the award took into consideration that Post flew 30,000 kilometers day and night, alone, over land and sea; covered an average of 3,700 kilometers per day; maintained an average speed of 160 kilometers an hour; and established, unassisted, a round-the-world record of eight days.

For a Gold Star Mother

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE first point of the star is Memory. The recollection of his baby ways. Upon the road to yesterday we see the shining candor of his infant gaze; The touch of velvet cheek, the clinging hands, The cunning accent making sweet demands.

Service to him, the next point of the star. The days and nights were busy in his care.

There is no rest where little babies are. For mothers who are happiest to share

The beating of their hearts with their small sons. They concentrate their lives on these dear ones.

Love is the third point of the star of gold. In blent affection, all the stars converge.

Only a mother knows how hearts can hold. So much of love; it is her life's chief urge.

Her love will follow him across the world. And just the gates where his long flag is furled.

The fourth point of the star is sorrow. The star is falling. Shadowed is its light.

Only a mother's faith holds valiantly. Against the coming of the final night.

Now hurrying into space the gold star goes. Its cargo all the heartbreak mother knows.

Only the fifth point keeps the star from wheeling. Forever lost to midnight's empty space.

But still upon the sky a faint light shows. It upholds within its lawful place.

Serene upon the heavens see it ride. A gold star swinging by its fifth point—PRIDE!

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

THE BEAUTIFUL BUT DUMB

TALK worst wife in the world is the one who is beautiful but dumb.

So says Chicago's famous "Divorce Judge," Joseph Sabath. He acquired his name by divorcing 38,000 couples. And out of all that experience he concludes that a man's worst bet is the girl who is beautiful but dumb.

That is so contrary to the taste displayed by many men in seeking wives that it makes a challenging statement.

Of course we know there are men who think of marriage as a permanent and serious undertaking, who seek a girl with whom they have tastes in common and whose intelligence they can respect. With both having that viewpoint, the man is very likely to find himself with a life partner who will be a real helpmate, with a companionship that will grow rather than diminish with the years.

But what's one man's meat, as they say, is another man's poison. Not every man wants to respect his wife's intelligence. Some men think the less women, and particularly their wives, know, the better! They may not consider tastes in common and a companionship of the mind necessary in married life.

There are men who will find it easier to be "the boss," to remain a hero in the eyes of the wife who is in the words of the judge, "dumb." A "dumb" woman has her requirements, of course, but usually if these are satisfied she will be easy to please, easy to impress. The "dumb" woman will not be her husband's "severest critic." And while there are men who do not respect that ability within bounds, the lack of it certainly goes far toward making a man's life miserable.

No, I should not agree with the divorcing judge that the beautiful but dumb always make the worst wives. They may have their points. It all depends on what a man wants in a wife!

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

"BACK TO THE KITCHEN"

THERE are two kinds of women—those that men love and marry, and those who belong to clubs. Well, it's back to the spinning wheel for women now. And back to the kitchen. That's where women belong.

Pretty strong words those. Their author is herself a well-known Midwest clubwoman and lawyer, and recently she was indicted as president of the Chicago Business and Professional Women's club.

"Every club woman and professional woman, young or old," she added, "would gladly chuck her career to marry a good man."

A married woman—and to give force to her words she added, "I am active in club and professional work myself, but I see the error of my ways."

Well! What are we going to say to the scores of young girls getting out of college preparing for careers, who ask, "What about that? Is it all a fizzle, this business of independence, work, careers for women?"

The answer is the same as to any extreme statement. If the lawyer-clubwoman, Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder, really spoke seriously when she said women belong in the kitchen, she is not to be taken seriously. Naturally every girl, career-minded or not, has in the back of her mind the assumption of eventual marriage. But if it is true that professional women would gladly chuck their careers for marriage, it is no less true that many married women think they would gain in a swap for careers.

A delay in the installation of electric refrigeration in the new A. & P. store made that company a week late in getting moved. However Monday morning saw them nicely settled in their new quarters. This is reported to be one of the finest stores owned by that gigantic organization. And new and modern show cases and shelving make the place most attractive and convenient. No longer must cargoes of goods have to be carried in thru the front door, but instead there are convenient back and side doors for such work, doing away with much labor and muss. The new quarters afford ample room for the business, with plenty of light and conveniences.
